Talk Is Very Cheap As Civic Leaders Flop

BY CARROLL O'CONNOR

About twenty-five civic-minded people of Missoula (Dean Wunderlich and Tom Swearingen among them) gathered in the county high school last night to discuss methods of enforcing the laws forbidding the sale of liquor to minors.

Briefly speaking, the discussion went 'round and 'round and came out nowhere. That's the news of the thing in simplified form. But permit us a bit of discussion on it and a few observations.

To begin with, good suggestions flew in the door and out the window much like birds of passage avoiding Salt Lake. The ladies present, in particular, suggested various ways in which peace officers might prevent minors from obtaining liquor. Could peace officers perhaps accost young-looking persons in bars and ask their ages? Could birth certificates or other proofs of proper age be demanded? Could tavern keepers be arrested?

A delegation of peace officers present, including the county attorney, felt these suggestions were not good. Why? Well, asking people's ages would be too much like Gestapo tactics. Demanding proof of age would too often result in being shown phony identification. Bar owners could not be arrested without absolute proof, which was defined by the county attorney as consisting of a sworn statement by the minor that he had been served liquor, testimony of the officer who had seen him served, and also the liquor, presumably the very glass it came in. All specious, if not simple-minded, arguments. The law enforcement group, supported by a local bar owner, implied that the burden of prevention rested with the parents of children more than it did with the authorities. In short, the officers served up the same old stew we've been downing resignedly these many years, without even the benefit of a new, piquant onion.

The law says certain things, rules in certain ways, and the authorities must enforce the law regardless of the little hindrances to enforcement mentioned last night. These were, in the main, purely imaginary anyway. Nobody there seemed to know much law.

This newspaper has begun a campaign which local newspapers and institutions have long been content to wink at—a campaign against profiteering from the spoiled health and morals of minor children—a campaign against selling liquor to minors and permitting flagrant prostitution—a campaign against cynical disobedience of laws the public has paid a lot of money to have passed. We'll see it through.

The law officers know their jobs. If they don't do their jobs we'll make news out of it, and we won't mind if it smells bad either.

(Editorial)

Hello, Vice-President and Senator!

It takes a lot of talking to get to see the Vice-President of the United States, and that is just what these young Montana men did—talk a lot. They are MSU's debate team, back from competitions at West Point, seeing the national capitol's sights with Senator James Murray. Left to right, Dean Jellison, Frank Gonzalez, Jerry Baldwin, Vice-President Barkley, Senator Murray, Prof. Ralph Y. McGinnis (debate coach), and Bud Arras Jr. The West Point debate reduced the size of the world for Jellison and Baldwin. The two Kalispell men had a surprise reunion with Midshipman Bob Ripley, also of Kalispell, who debated with the Annapolis team.

PRETTY MONEY

Do the tavern owners of Missoula expect to justify their profits by breaking the law?

This is what they are doing each time they serve alcohol to minors, and a man who breaks the law is a criminal. There are many, and some who gathered in the high school last night to investigate this problem are among them, who say juvenile drinking is a particularly pernicious crime, and the contributors to it are particularly undesirable citizens.

No Reform

The men who are fighting illegal drinking seek no reform, they say. All they ask is that the city enforce the laws. And this is all we ask.

The moment is propitious. We have a new mayor. We do not know his standing with tavern owners, but two things we do know:

He told the Kaimin the anti-drinking laws could and would be enforced.

The under-age drinking problem, certainly the high school problem, is more serious than the good natured and ignorant believe.

Teen Agers

Actually the force of the anti-drinking movement now comes largely from those who have eyes on the high school. The action meeting last night was held in the high school, some of the members were parents of high school children, and it is the high school students who are most interested in the outcome of the move.

But movements of this kind seldom slow down before they touch all who might be touched, and the committee is not ignorant of illicit college drinking. The tavern owners know they must watch their step when

Plans Going Ahead For Jumbo Day

Plans for Jumbo Hall day this Friday have not yet been completed but will be announced later in the week, according to Cecil Zezula, Whitehall, president of the hall.

Tentative plans include a ball game between the North hall "Cuties" and the Jumbo "Juveniles," an open house and an all-Jumbo dance at the Florentine gardens. The day's activities start off at 9:30 when Jumbo will present a convo entitled "A Day in the Life of S.O.B."

Easterner With Piano Wants Western Home

By JULIE WUERTHNER

Kaimin readers have been mystified the past week by an advertisement asking that someone give "an easterner, single, age 47," information relating to a room with a private family on a ranch within 75 miles of Missoula, Helena or Butte. The ad offers $50 reward for information leading to a "satisfactory location."

The "easterner, single, age 47," is John Hertel, a native New Yorker, musician, world traveler, linguist in romance languages, and a person "who likes to examine people under a microscope, except that this means being too close to them."

Libel Threat

I don't dare describe Hertel as cultured and refined, because the gentleman threatened a libel suit if these words were used. His greying van dyke beard is carefully groomed, and his eyes sparkle with love of life when he speaks.

The interview was made difficult by the fact that Hertel discusses religion, politics and economics with nobody, especially Americans, because "they are so ill informed."

Music is Hertel's hobby, and his advertisement offered to sound-proof his room.

"After all, no one likes to hear me hammer a piano for several hours a day. In fact, sometimes I don't even like to hear myself," he said.

Broad 'Aye'

The New Yorker speaks with the traditional broad "aye" in a clipped and precise way. His speech is sprinkled with exclamations such as "hellish, damnable, and my gawd." He frequently interrupts himself with a short bubbling laugh.

When asked about the people of Montana, Hertel replied: "I like the people—except some of the women I have met. It appears to me that women of some education amuse themselves by continually being drunk and gambling on these slot machines."

He went on to explain that he has nothing against gambling and drinking, and modified his statement by saying that it was not true of all of them.

Loafs, Travels

Hertel was educated in the East, and after a year of teaching at an eastern university, traveled to Europe. His family seems to have had some means, for Hertel admitted that he "just loafed and traveled" during his stay on the Continent.

"I should have stayed on in Europe when I was young," said Hertel. "I feel more at home in France than anywhere in the world."

Hertel stated that he hoped someone could find him a suitable location soon, for he wishes to settle down. His physicians have recommended that he remain in a cool mountain atmosphere.

Chambermaid Date

"Well, I have a date with the chambermaid—but not as you think," said Hertel. "I've got to remind her of whether I'll stay on another day, or go to Butte."

If you have information leading to a location of a room, Hertel urges you to contact Dick Shirley, Kaimin business manager.

It might be an interesting experience for a Montana ranch family. Unlike Mr. Belvedere of movie fame, Hertel has no plans for writing a book.

Campus Briefs

Charles F. Hertler, associate professor, will return to MSU this summer to resume his position as chairman of the department of Health and Physical Education. He has been at Indiana university at Bloomington, the past year working on a Ph.D.

The business administration school picnic will be planned at the Bus Ad club meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Copper room, according to Clyde Duncan, Missoula, vice-president.

All members of Alpha Lambda Delta are urged to attend an important meeting tonight at 7 o'clock in the Copper room, according to Elsie Taylor, Whitefish, Wis., president.

The University Rifle club meets tomorrow evening to elect officers and discuss next year's program. Bob Holter, vice-president, said yesterday. The group will meet at 7 in Forestry 106.

C. Rulon Jeppesen, faculty adviser for the group, will be at the meeting, Holter said, to help formulate plans for next year's organization.

Streit's 'Union Now' Praised By 'Fortune'

Magazine Editors Want Constitutional Confab To Explore Union

Clarence Streit '19 and his controversial book, "Union Now," provide the background for an article in the April issue of Fortune magazine. The article, "History Is Catching Up with 'Union Now,'" expresses the Fortune editors' belief that the time is ripe for the United States to issue a call for an exploratory constitutional convention for the new union of the world's leading 15 democracies. This is the theme of Streit's "Union Now."

Ten Year Struggle

The article traces Streit's ten-year effort to organize Federal Union, Inc., which now has 6,000 dues-paying members. His work on behalf of a world-wide federal union like the United States has been aided by his magazine, "Freedom and Union," which now has reached a circulation of 10,000. His book, "Union Now," has sold 300,000 copies and is now being published in a new edition with five added chapters. (Harpers, $3).

Foreign Correspondent

After graduation from the University, Streit worked as a foreign correspondent for the Philadelphia Ledger and the New York Times. While reporting the League of Nations for the New York Times, he became disillusioned with the League's inadequacies, causing him to put forth his plan for a federal union of democratic nations. The Fortune editors said they were the first to hail Streit's book, "Union Now," published in 1939, which blueprinted his plan. They now believe that history has caught up with Streit's idea which "ten years ago was little better than a dream."

National Cooperation

To implement Streit's dream of international liberty through cooperation among nations, Federal Union, Inc. has swung into political action with the formation of an Atlantic Union Committee for a Federal Convention of Democracies. The committee will urge Congress to call an exploratory convention to discuss the possibilities of a federation of those nations bounding the Atlantic.

She who hesitates is won.

Bus Ad Gets Association Recognition

The business administration school became Montana's only accredited professional school of business administration last week when it was elected to associate membership in the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business.

Six Schools Accredited

The school is now one of the 60 accredited members of the association which evaluates the 200 business administration schools in the country. The University was one of six schools which became associate members, the first year such a classification has been made. According to Dean Theodore H. Smith, the only restriction placed on an associate member is that of being unable to vote on the constitution or executive board of the association.

The school now has a teaching staff of 15 full-time and 6 part-time instructors. These include six persons with Ph.D. degrees; two certified public accountants; and three with law degrees. The staff offers professional training in accounting, banking, finance and insurance, management, marketing, commercial education, and secretarial science.

Support Praised

The association's investigating committee commented on the "very fine support" the school has received from business organizations of the state. Such support has been shown, Smith said, in such acts as the scholarships granted by the Montana Society of Certified Public Accountants, the Montana Banker's association, and many others.

Defeat of WSC Cougars Costs Coach Karlin Steak Dinners for Team

A score of victories on the home court—that is what the Grizzly tennis squad chalked up when they beat Washington State college, one of the toughest teams in the Northwest, 4-3, last Saturday morning.

This game gave the squad revenge for the 4-3 defeat suffered at Pullman last year by MSU. Jules Karlin, MSU tennis coach, had been the Washington tennis coach several years ago and was particularly interested in beating his old school. But this MSU victory cost Karlin steak dinners for the squad at the Swallow.

Both teams battled it out in the snow and wind (at one time the snow covered the courts) until the match score stood at 3-3. Everything then was up to the decision of the second doubles match which was tied up also, 1 set WSC, 1 set Montana. It was here that the calm and steady playing of Jardine, aided by Holmstrom, paid off for Montana again. With a third set score of 6-3, Montana won the set, the match and the game.

Five out of the seven matches went into three sets with only a couple being decided in two, Bob Kramer's (M) easy victory over Soth, and Kaffka of WSC over Jim Parent. Cumming (M) won his singles match over Witt in three sets as did Jardine (M) over Richardson. This is Jardine's nineteenth straight win. Bob Holmstrom (M) in fourth singles position was edged out by Hazelwood, 6-8, 6-2, 3-6.

Ironically, Cumming and Kramer (M) who had defeated Witt and South respectively in singles, were defeated by the same two in the first doubles, the Washington pair using a great deal of accurate lobbing. Fans were amused at Witt's objections and replacements of the linemen in this game. A victory in second doubles, Jardine-Holmstrom (M) vs. Richardson-Kaffka, pulled the game out of the fire.

Results:

- Singles
1. Cumming (M) over Witt, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.
 2. Kramer (M) over Soth, 6-0, 6-2.
 3. Jardine (M) over Richardson, 6-8, 7-5, 7-5.
 4. Hazelwood (W) over Holmstrom, 8-6, 2-6, 6-3.
 5. Kaffka (W) over Parent, 6-1, 6-2.
- Doubles
1. Witt-South (W) over Cumming-Kramer, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2.
 2. Jardine-Holmstrom (M) over Richardson-Kaffka, 4-6, 7-5, 6-3.

EWC Cops Mile Relay, Wins Meet

What might have been an exact repeat of last year's Grizzly victory over the Eastern Washington college Savages turned into a win for the Savages and was again decided in the final event, the mile relay, Saturday on Dornblaser field. The Grizzlies, ahead by one point going into the event, succumbed to the speedy relay team in the last half mile and put the Savages ahead 67½ to 63½.

In the outstanding event of the afternoon, "Discus Dick" Doyle smashed the state intercollegiate record by hurling the platter 160 feet 8½ inches. The previous record of 156 feet was set in 1940 by Gene Clawson who was an official at Saturday's dual meet.

Sparkplug of the Grizzly offense was Lou Rocheleau who garnered 17 points by placing first in both the high and low hurdles, the broad jump and tying for second in the high jump.

Warren Crosby achieved his best throw of the season by heaving the shot 46 feet 2¾ inches. Distance runner Bill Brandt knocked 22 seconds off his previous best time by turning in a 10.21 two-mile run while Howie Domke sped to a 51.9 victory in the quarter.

The weather on Dornblaser field, along with the meet itself, was almost identical to that of last year on the Savages' home field in Cheney. Rain fell during most of last year's meet and the temperature was as cold. Until the final event, the outcome was in doubt, as was this year's tussle.

Montana's Wy Andrus pushed Brewer hard and took second in the century. In a brilliant finish Bill McChesney sped ahead of two Savages to take third in the two-mile event. In the quarter, Domke and Heintz finished 1-2. Chris Small looked good in his first race of the year by snatching second in the half-mile. Don Delaney would have placed second in the shot put, but fouled, disqualifying his best heave.

Results:

- Pole vault: Doring, EWC, 12'; Whitehill, EWC, 11' 6"; tie, Christensen, MSU, and Graham, MSU.
- Shot put: Crosby, MSU, 46' 2 3/4"; Stewart, EWC, 41' 6 1/4"; Pein, EWC, 41' 2".
- Javelin: Stephan, EWC, 184' 5 3/8"; Christensen, MSU, 174' 1 5/8"; Graham, MSU, 174' 7-8".
- High jump: Whitehill, EWC, 5' 11 1/4"; tie, Rocheleau, MSU, and G. Carlton, EWC, 5' 9 1/4".
- Mile run: Carpine, EWC, 4:38.5; McChesney, MSU; Berry, EWC.
- 440-yard run: Domke, MSU, 51.9; Heintz, MSU; Carlton, EWC.
- Broad jump: Rocheleau, MSU, 22' 4 3/4"; Clark, EWC, 21' 1"; Carlton, EWC, 20' 11 1/2".
- 100-yard dash: Brewer, EWC, 10.3; Andrus, MSU; tie, McLatchy, MSU, and Clark, EWC.
- High hurdles: Rocheleau, MSU, 15.4; Hoon, EWC; LaVigne, EWC.
- Discus: Doyle, MSU, 160' 8 3/8"; Crosby, MSU; Pein, EWC.
- 880-yard run: Carpine, EWC, 2:16; Small, MSU; Heintz, MSU.
- 220-yard dash: Brewer, EWC, 22.2; Domke, MSU; McLatchy, MSU.
- Two-mile run: Brandt, MSU, 10:21; Berry, EWC; McChesney, MSU.
- 220-yard low hurdles: Rocheleau, MSU, 26; Carlton, EWC; LaVigne, EWC.
- Relay race: EWC (R. Carlton, J. Carlton, T. Carpine, and Brewer), 3:27.8.

Schedule Set For Intramural Track Meet

Intramural track plans were discussed at the intramural athletic managers' meeting Thursday.

Dave Cole and the managers decided to have a preliminary and final meet. Friday, May 20, was set for the preliminaries, and Saturday, May 21, for the finals as tentative dates for the meets.

Idaho Golfers Top Grizzlies in First Home Match

MSU golfers lost by one point, 14-13, to the University of Idaho in their first home match at the Missoula Country club Saturday.

In the morning doubles matches Montana took two out of three for the lead, but Vandals picked up by taking four out of six singles matches to win in the afternoon. George Sarsfield, Montana player-coach, and John Morley, outstanding Idaho number one man, both shot a low 74.

Doubles results (Grizzly team listed first): Paulson and Sarsfield 3, Morley and Taylor 0; Anderson and Radakovich 2½, Keenan and Miller ½; Dawes and Larson ½, Mansias and Neiber 2½.

Singles results: Sarsfield 0, Morley 3; Dawes 3, Mansias 0; Larson 0, Taylor 3; Paulson 3, Keenan 0; Radakovich 0, Miller 3; Anderson 1, Neiber 2.

Letters . . . to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Your choice bit of satire (?) at the close of my letter in Thursday's Kaimin has me a little puzzled as to just what you are aiming at, personally, and as the editor of our paper.

From your editorials and features, I've conjectured that you were for such things as greater representation in student government, fairness in printing news, whether or not it criticized your attitudes or policies, etc. Further, I've admired the courage of your convictions in standing virtually alone on a few issues.

But this comment referred to above, whether meant for sarcasm or satirical humor, I don't know. However, I must say that I am a little disappointed in your thoughtless addenda to a letter of appreciation, which I had fondly hoped would not call forth rebuff or unkind criticism.

I might mention that there is a group on campus that stands for those attitudes and character traits which you apparently so lightly regard. This is the University Christian Fellowship, which holds its regular meetings each Friday evening, not in the Kaimin news room, but in the Bitterroot room of the Student Union at 7:30 p. m. These meetings welcome everyone, especially you, Bill. Check your campus briefs for particulars.

All of which reinforces what I said Thursday about so much good in the worst of us. I refer to your not-too-wise comment which called forth this letter and made possible a plug for our organization, which, I understand, a certain faculty prof calls "radical."

Very sincerely yours,
Giff Martin

P. S. We'd be happy to congregate in the newsroom, Bill.

(Sorry we seem to be shy on knowledge of the moral law. Actually, we wish both the Christian Fellowship and the Newman club the very best of luck, in this world and in the next. Don't let faculty noise bother you. Our faculty is long on noise, short on action, sometimes. On occasion it is also short of noise. This timid group didn't even have the intellectual decency to protest the virtual ouster of Dr. Meadows two years ago. Believe me, dear Giff, you have nothing to fear from the faculty.—Ed.)

NORTH HALL ACCEPTS

Dear Eightball Jurovich:

You put yourself right behind the eightball this time. North hall gladly accepts the bid so graciously given; I might say with the view in mind of trouncing the best that Jumbo can offer to within an inch of their mangy lives.

And just to prove that we are not in the least bit frightened by your big, bordering on conceitful, boast, we will wear our "newest look." In addition to that we will give you the pleasure of choosing the umpire and the coaches for both teams. Just a bit of advice, "Hungry": Don't spend too much money on bribes; you will need some for band-aids after the game.

I was more than delighted to see that you condescended to admit at least remote chances of defeat, although on somewhat dubious grounds. I may say that the North hall team will serve Jumbo's team their evening meal for a week if we lose.

We will see you at 2:30 on the North hall field May 6.

I'll take cream and sugar,
please,
Eleanor Anderson

KONAH FOOLISHNESS

The young high school buck who wrote in the Konah Friday that MSU had nothing to offer but a losing football team and wild alcoholism had better write a few more strictures in this vein if he wishes to carry his readership with him before fall quarter.

So far his readers just don't agree with him. Year after year our enrollment is stuffed with more Missoula students than any other.

It is only natural that junior should go astray. No one who ever wrote purely to produce noise ever wrote anything that would stand up.

We are constrained to pray that this sparkling journalist will come to MSU and enroll (as well he might) in our famed journalism school. —JWS

Season Tickets For Interscholastic Week Now on Sale

Season tickets for Montana Interscholastic week, May 12-14, go on sale at the Student Union business office today. Tickets will also be sold by Spurs and Bearpaws.

Cost of the student tickets is $1.50. This compares with the $2.70 price of downtown tickets, and the $3.60 figure which would be the total cost of admission to the events, separately.

The tickets cover admission to all track and field events, the speech and debate contests, and the little theater festival which takes place during the entire final day of Interscholastic, Saturday, May 14.

Students planning to go to any two or more of these events will save money by buying a season ticket.

SDX SMOKER WEDNESDAY
